	Apr 19	Dem	Ind	Rep
Those who say we need to empower all Americans by making common sense reforms. That means abolishing the undemocratic filibuster rule that requires 60 votes, not a simple majority, to pass legislation; improving the political balance of the Supreme Court by adding justices; and ensuring all U.S. citizens, including residents of Washington, D.C., have full representation in Congress.	57%	82%	52%	29%

Q112. [FORM A] Even if you don't agree with either side completely, who do you find more convincing:

	Apr 19	Dem	Ind	Rep
Those who say the filibuster has to go. It is an out-of-date Senate rule that's not in the Constitution and allows a minority of Senators to cause more gridlock. If the majority of Senators support something, they should be able to vote for it. Already, too many bills with bipartisan support have been blocked because a small minority of senators want to play partisan games. Those who say abolishing the filibuster is just dangerous. The Senate is supposed to be "the world's greatest deliberative body," where both parties have to work together and even the minority party gets a voice. Without the filibuster, whichever party has a bare majority can pass the laws they want: that means it would be easier for politicians on either side of the aisle to make massive, harmful changes with only a slim majority.	56%	54%	61%	54%

Those who say when Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia died, President Obama nominated a moderate replacement, but Republicans refused to even give the judge a vote. Now there is a conservative majority that is already threatening policies Americans support on important issues like health care. Unless Americans want all progressive laws struck down by handpicked Republican justices, we need to add justices to restore balance.....	50%	75%	55%	17%
Those who say increasing the number of Supreme Court justices is just an attempt by radical Democrats to "pack the Courts." They can't win elections and pick justices the usual way, so they are trying to change the rules of the game. If this power grab happens, both parties will just add justices whenever they are in power, which will destroy the legitimacy of the court and rip apart the U.S. Constitution.....	50	25	45	83

Those who say the U.S. Supreme Court is supposed to be above politics but that's not the case anymore. Politicians attack qualified nominees and vote along party lines, and outside groups turn confirmation fights into political campaigns.
