

navigator*

Update:
Thursday, April 29

Navigating The First
100 Days

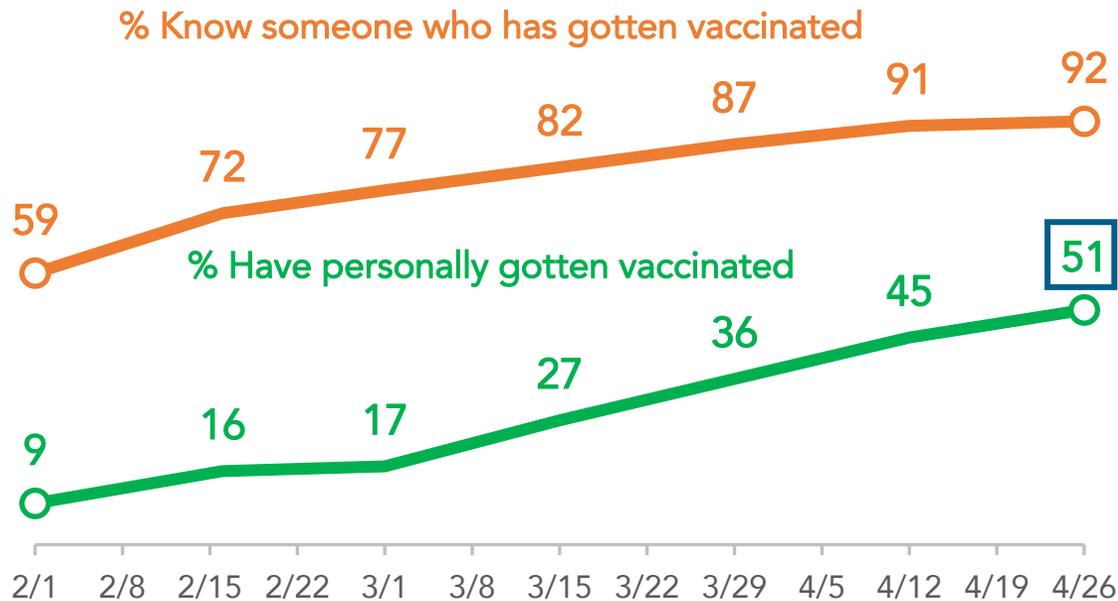

Key Takeaways:

- As a majority report being vaccinated, nearly three in four Americans approve of the country's vaccine rollout, an increase of 33 points since Biden took office.
- The highest share since the pandemic began now say the "worst is over."
- Minimal side effects from the vaccine and the increased potential for reopening as more people get vaccinated are the most compelling reasons to get vaccinated.

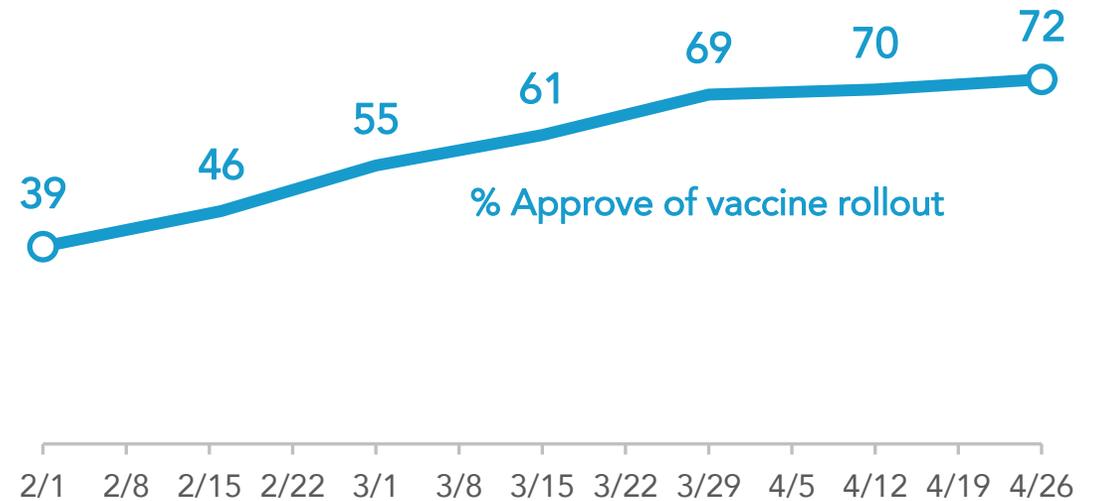

Vast Increase in Vaccine Rollout Approval During Biden's First 100 Days

With a majority of Americans now having personally been vaccinated, almost three in four approve of the vaccine rollout – up 33 points since asked following Biden's inauguration on February 1st.

Do you know anyone who has received the coronavirus vaccine?

Do you approve or disapprove of how the vaccine rollout in the United States has gone so far?

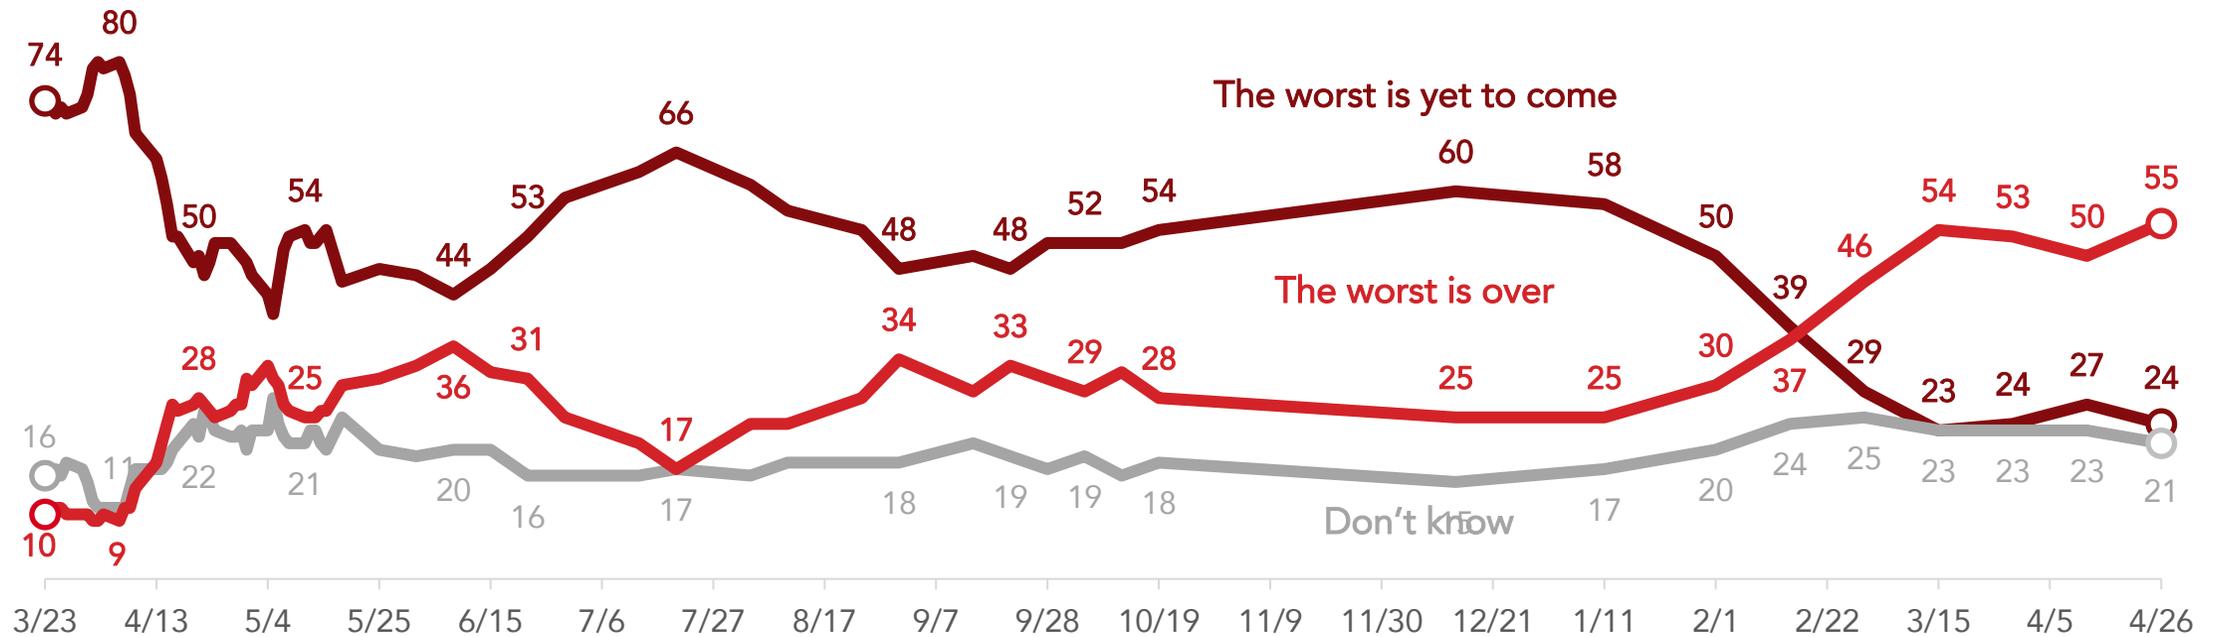

Nationwide surveys of registered voters; Each wave represents approximately 1,000 interviews taken over the prior three-five days. Latest wave conducted April 22-April 26, 2021. For more info, visit navigatorresearch.org

The Highest Share in Over a Year of Tracking Say the “Worst Is Over” in Pandemic

Optimism about the state of the pandemic is cross-partisan: 47% of Democrats, 48% of independents, and 66% of Republicans say the “worst is over.”

When it comes to the coronavirus pandemic in the United States, do you personally think that...

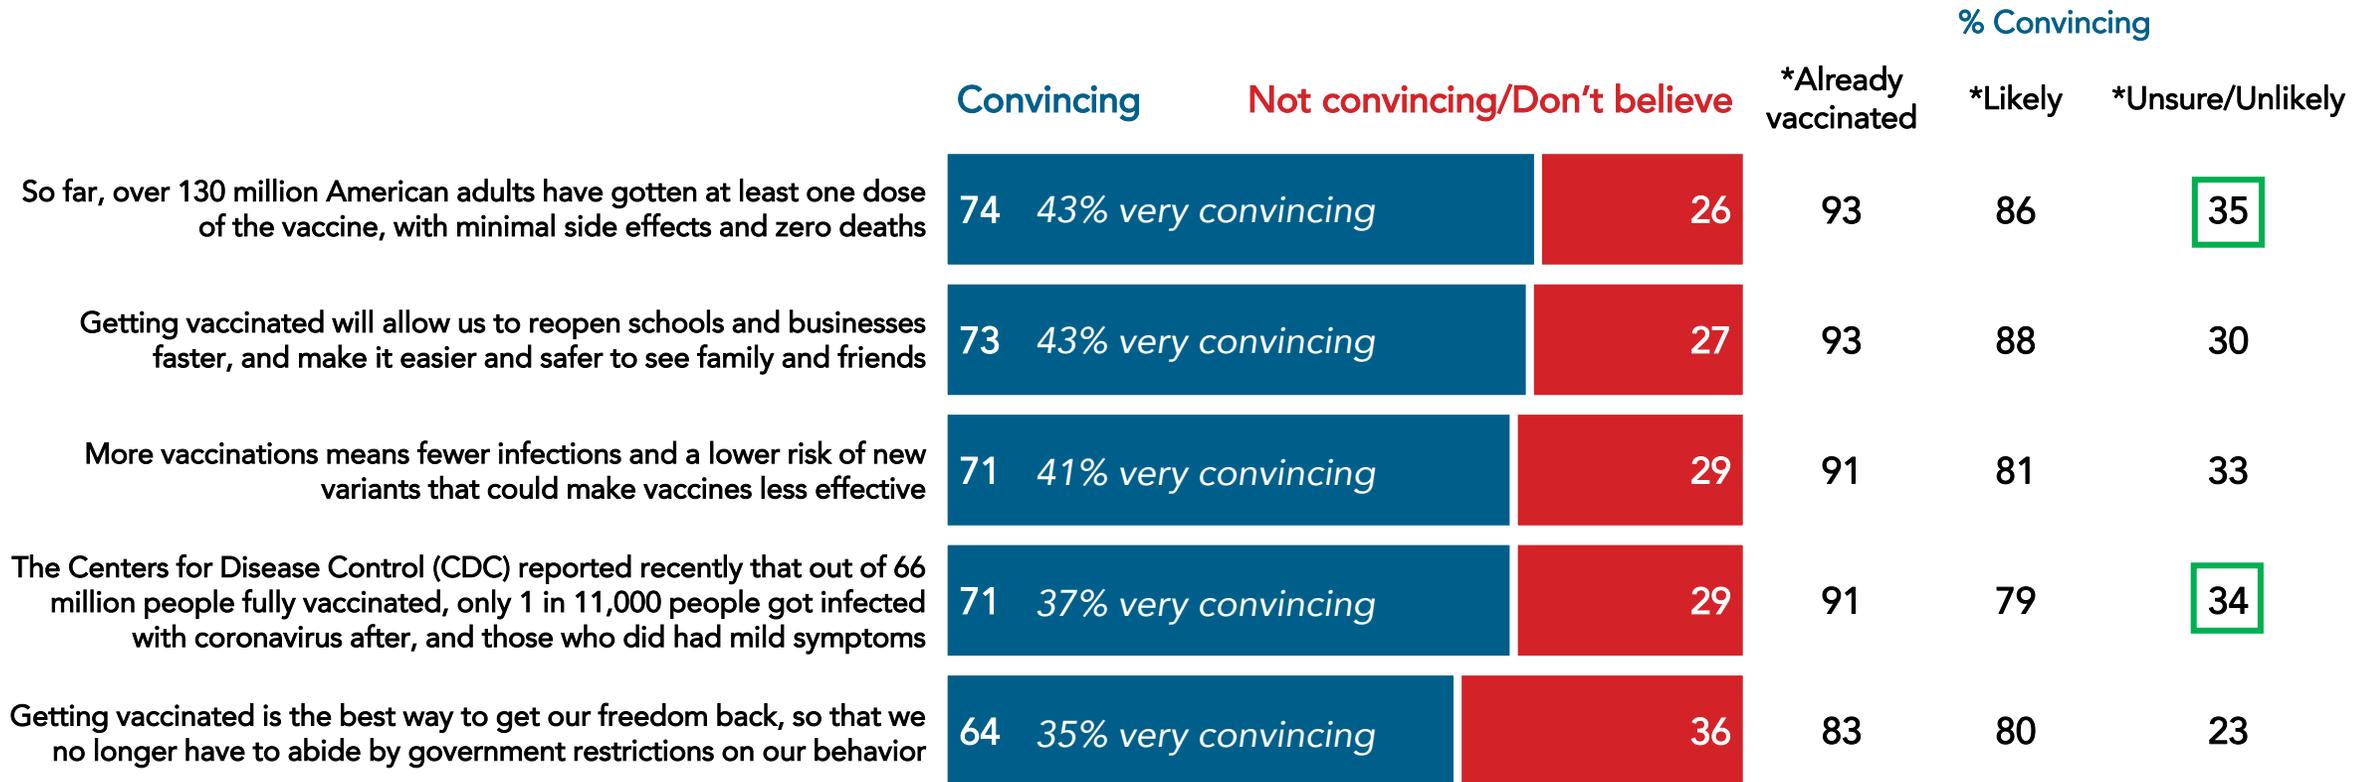

Nationwide surveys of registered voters; Each wave represents approximately 1,000 interviews taken over the prior three-five days. Latest wave conducted April 22-April 26, 2021. For more info, visit navigatorresearch.org

Most Convincing Ways to Reach Vaccine Skeptics: Minimal Side Effects and Low Post-Vaccine Infection Rates

On a separate question, while 51% of Americans report having personally been vaccinated, 19% say they are likely to get vaccinated but have not yet gotten the jab, while 30% say they are “not sure” or “unlikely” to get it.

For each statement, please indicate whether you find it convincing as a reason to get vaccinated or not.

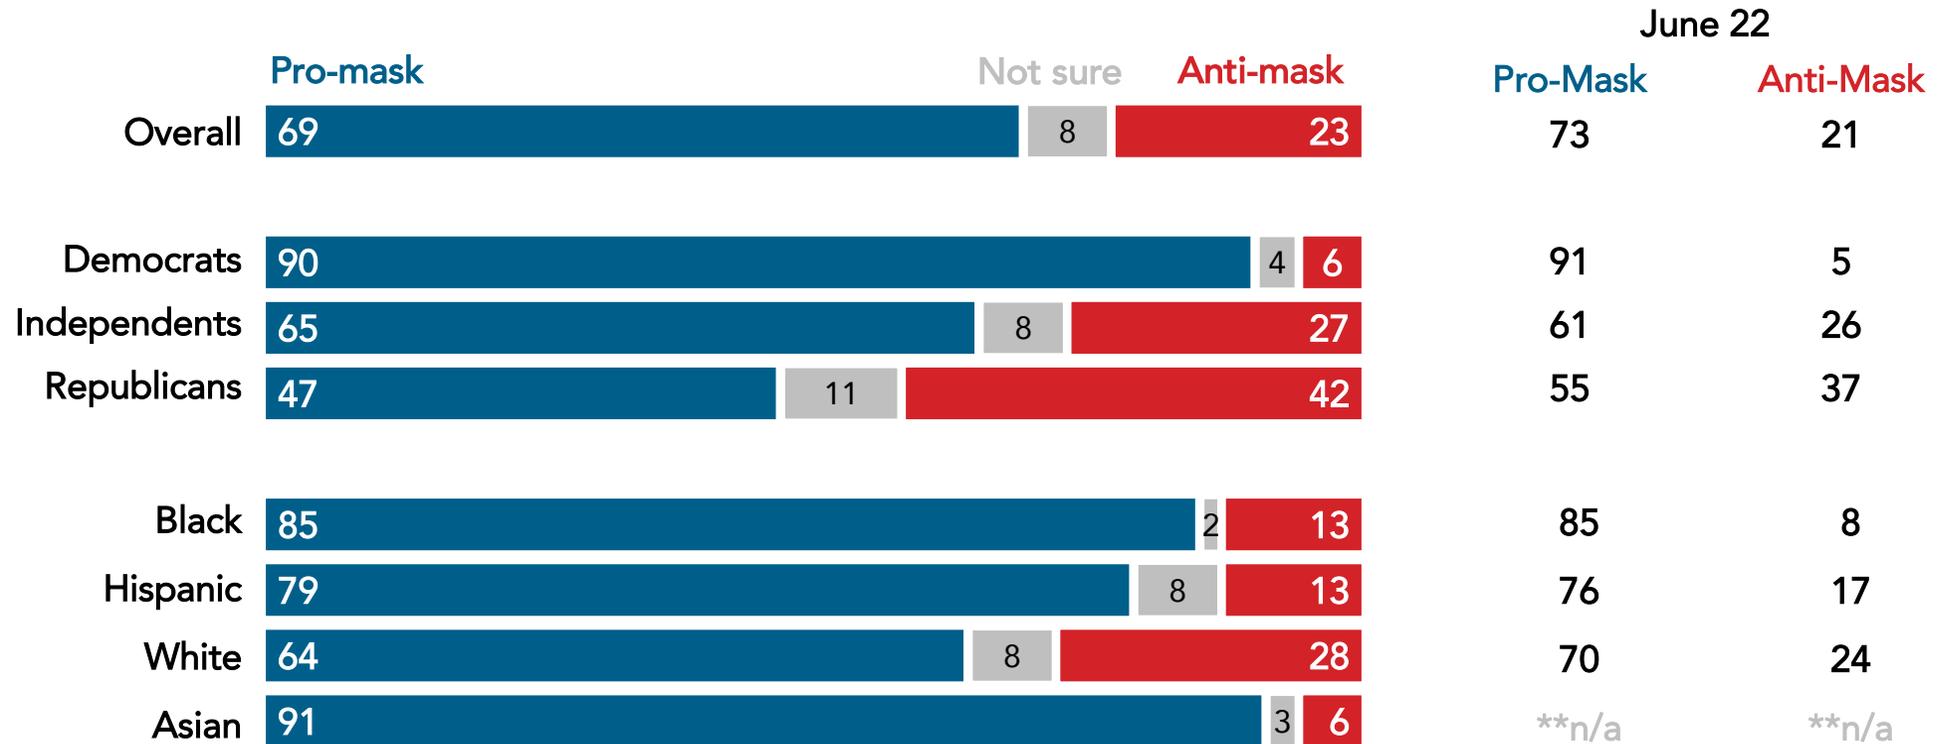

*“Already vaccinated,” “likely to get vaccinated,” and “unsure/unlikely to get vaccinated” subgroups are drawn from separate questions, where respondents reported whether or not they have been vaccinated, and if not, if they are likely, unlikely, or not sure if they will get vaccinated once the vaccine is made available to them. Nationwide survey of 989 registered voters conducted April 22-April 26, 2021. For more info, visit navigatorresearch.org.

Americans Remain Largely “Pro-Mask”

Nearly seven in ten continue to say they are “pro-mask,” including almost two in three independents and nearly half of Republicans.

There are differing opinions on whether or not people should be wearing masks right now when they are in public, but if you had to choose, would you say that you are generally pro-mask or anti-mask?*

*Latest wave was fielded prior to the CDC’s recent announcement relaxing mask-wearing guidelines for those who are vaccinated in certain situations.

Previous survey’s sample size of AAPI interviews is too small for statistical analysis.

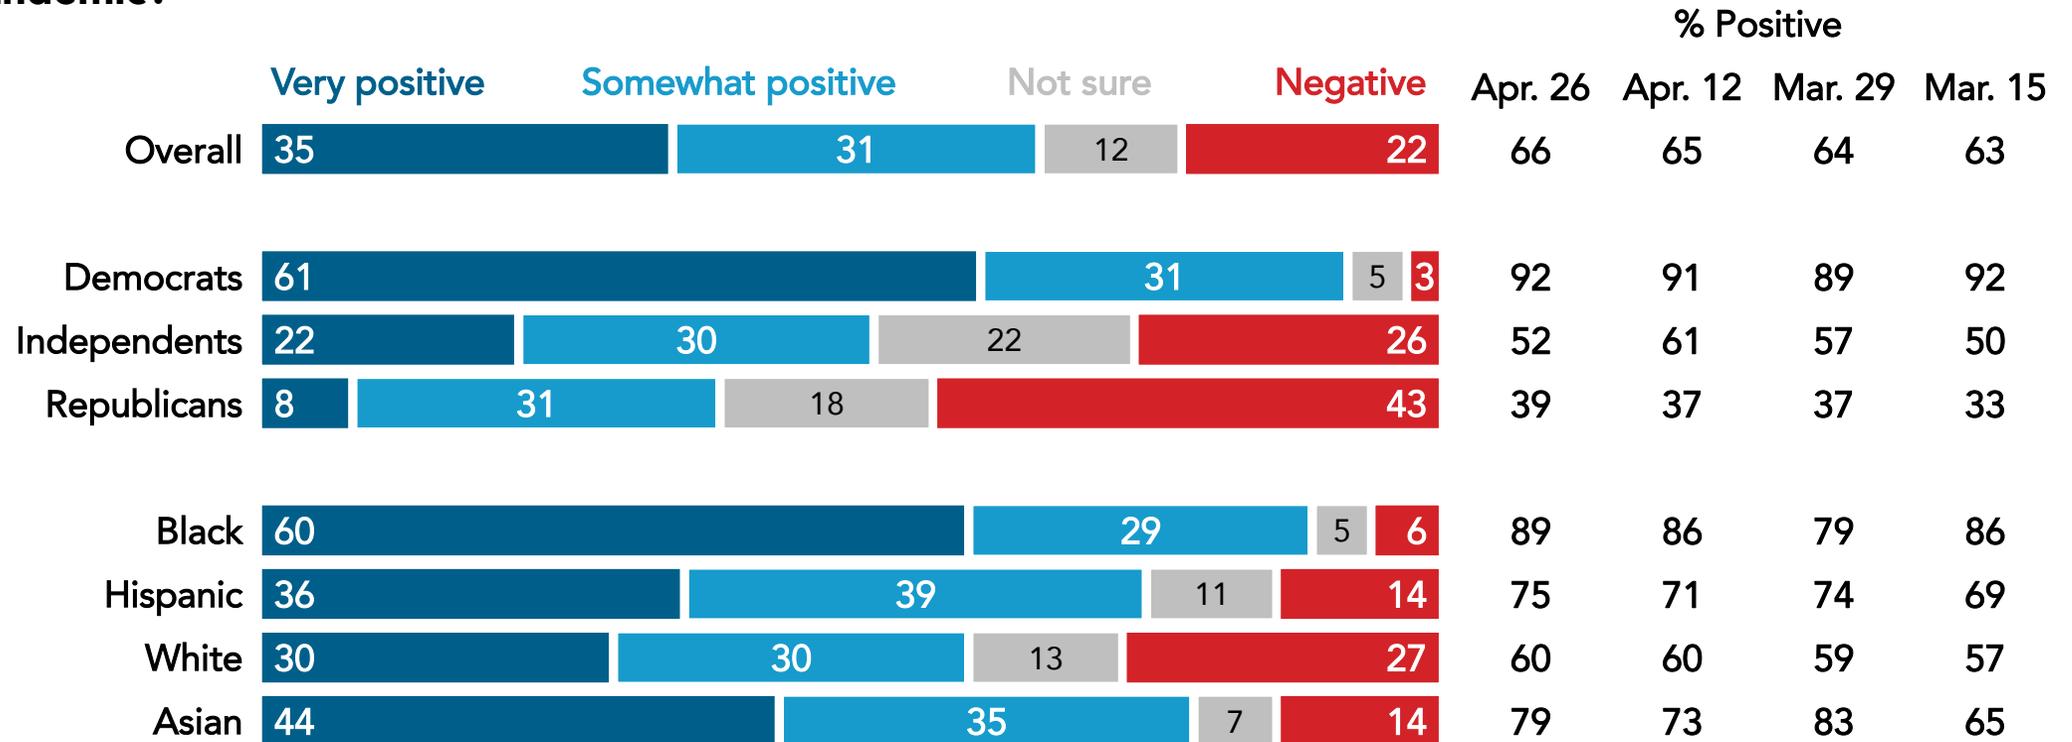

Nationwide surveys of registered voters; Each wave represents approximately 1,000 interviews taken over the prior three-five days.

Latest wave conducted April 22-April 26, 2021. For more info, visit navigatorresearch.org

Public Continues to See Biden's Policies Having a Positive Impact on the Pandemic

Among independents, 52% say Biden's policies have had a positive impact, as do 39% of Republicans.

Since taking office, have Joe Biden's pandemic-related policies had a positive or negative impact on combating the pandemic?

Nationwide surveys of registered voters; Each wave represents approximately 1,000 interviews taken over the prior three-five days. Latest wave conducted April 22-April 26, 2021. For more info, visit navigatorresearch.org

navigator*

About Navigator

In a world where the news cycle is the length of a tweet, our leaders often lack the real-time public-sentiment analysis to shape the best approaches to talking about the issues that matter the most. Navigator is designed to act as a consistent, flexible, responsive tool to inform policy debates by conducting research and reliable guidance to inform allies, elected leaders, and the press. Navigator is a project led by pollsters from Global Strategy Group and GBAO along with an advisory committee, including: Andrea Purse, progressive strategist; Arkadi Gerney, The Hub Project; Joel Payne, The Hub Project; Christina Reynolds, EMILY's List; Delvone Michael, Working Families; Felicia Wong, Roosevelt Institute; Mike Podhorzer, AFL-CIO; Jesse Ferguson, progressive strategist; Navin Nayak, Center for American Progress Action Fund; Stephanie Valencia, EquisLabs; and Melanie Newman, Planned Parenthood Action Fund.

About the Study

Global Strategy Group conducted public opinion surveys among a sample of 989 registered voters from April 22-April 26, 2021. 101 additional interviews were conducted among Hispanic voters. 104 additional interviews were conducted among Asian American and Pacific Islander voters. 96 additional interviews were conducted among African American voters. 98 additional interviews were conducted among independent voters. The survey was conducted online, recruiting respondents from an opt-in online panel vendor. Respondents were verified against a voter file and special care was taken to ensure the demographic composition of our sample matched that of the national registered voter population across a variety of demographic variables.

For Press inquiries contact:

press@navigatorresearch.org

To learn more about Navigator:

<http://navigatorresearch.org>

@NavigatorSurvey on Twitter