Methodology

Impact Research conducted a survey of N=1500 likely 2024 general election voters in 61 battleground congressional districts.

74% of interviews were conducted by text-to-web and 26% were via online panel.

Interviews were conducted between July 6-July 12, 2023.

The margin of error for a sample of this size is +/- 2.5 percentage points at the 95% level of confidence. The margin of error for subgroups varies and is higher.

Key Takeaways

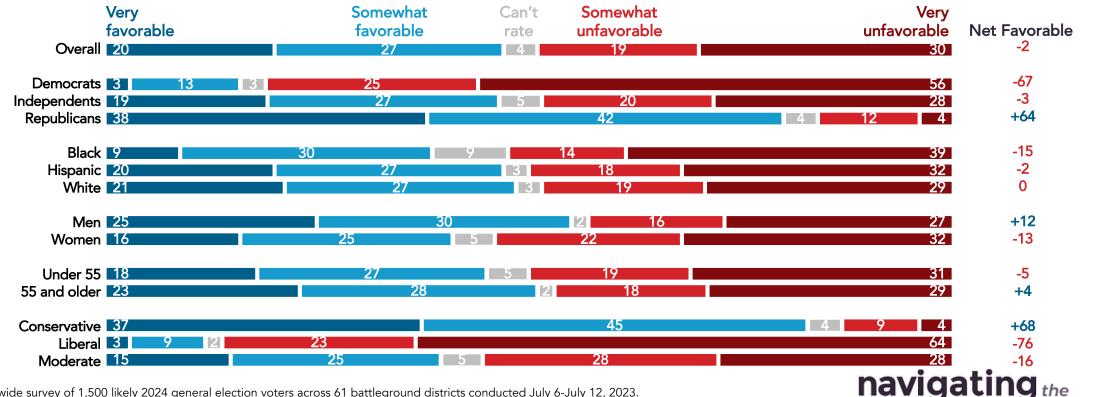

- The U.S. Supreme Court has mixed approval ratings but additional information about the Court shows gaps in confidence. The Supreme Court is viewed favorably by 47 percent of voters and unfavorably by 49 percent, but more than two in five voters say the Supreme Court is "too conservative."
- Voters disagree with recent Supreme Court rulings on abortion, LGBTQ rights, and guns. Pluralities strongly oppose each of these decisions, and a majority oppose the overturning of Roe v. Wade.
- Voters lack confidence in the Supreme Court to be impartial. A majority (55%) of voters have either no confidence at all or a little confidence in the Supreme Court to issue rulings based on the U.S. Constitution and not their political opinions.
- Voters strongly favor investigating Supreme Court justices for corruption. By 43 points, voters favor investigating Supreme Court justices for corruption, with support across partisan lines.

Ratings of the Court Are Mixed; Those Viewing it Very Unfavorably Outpace Those Viewing it Very Favorably by Ten Points

The Supreme Court's popularity is divided along party lines, with liberals, women, and Black voters having the most negative impressions of the court.

Please indicate whether you have a very favorable view, somewhat favorable view, somewhat unfavorable view, or very unfavorable view. If you have never heard of them, or cannot rate them, please indicate that... The U.S. Supreme Court.

Do you favor or oppose Congress investigating U.S. Supreme Court justices for corruption?*

*Full question text: Multiple U.S. Supreme Court justices have accepted gifts and lavish vacations from billionaires. Those same billionaires later had cases that were heard by the Supreme Court that directly impacted them and their businesses. The justices did not disclose the gifts and trips and did not remove themselves from hearing the cases involving the billionaires. About Navigator and Navigating the Battleground

In a world where the news cycle is the length of a tweet, our leaders often lack the real-time public-sentiment analysis to shape the best approaches to talking about the issues that matter the most. Navigator is designed to act as a consistent, flexible, responsive tool to inform policy debates by conducting research and reliable guidance to inform allies, elected leaders, and the press. Navigating the Battleground is a project designed to understand messaging nuances in different types of battleground geographies, led by pollsters from Impact Research along with an advisory committee, including: Jessica Floyd, The Hub Project; Christina Reynolds, EMILY's List; Mike Podhorzer, formerly of the AFL-CIO; Jesse Ferguson, progressive strategist; Navin Nayak, Center for American Progress Action Fund; Stephanie Valencia, EquisLabs; Melanie Newman, Planned Parenthood Action Fund; and Joel Payne, MoveOn.

About the Study

Impact Research conducted public opinion surveys among a sample of 1,500 likely 2024 general election voters from July 6-July 12, 2023. The survey was conducted by a mix of text-to-web (74 percent) and an opt-in, online panel (26 percent). Respondents were verified against a voter file and special care was taken to ensure the demographic composition of our sample matched that of the 61 congressional districts included in the sample across a variety of demographic variables. The margin of error for the full sample at the 95 percent level of confidence is +/- 2.5 percentage points. The margin for error for subgroups varies and is higher.
